WASHINGTON (AP) — An American diplomat has appealed to Cambodian authorities for release of the U.S. ammunition carrier Columbia Eagle and its 13 crewmen.

A State Department spokesman said American Charge d'Affairs Lloyd M. Rives met with Cambodian officials Monday and also attempted to learn the fate of two men who sought political asylum after seizing control of the ship with a bomb scare.

Decision Unknown

There was no early indication action would be taken by Cambodian authorities, an embassy spokesman said.

The two men who allegedly seized control of the ship with a phony bomb scare were identified by Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., as Clyde McKay of Escondido, Calif., and Alvin Glatkowski of Long Beach, Calif.

Glatkowski was a utility steward aboard the vessel. McKay was a fireman.

Seek Political Asylum

Both sought political asylum in Cambodia, authorities said. A spokesman for Hatfield said "they threatened the ship as a war protest."

State Department press officer

Robert J. McCloskey said Monday that "we're not charging anyone with mutiny. I want to be clear on that."

The freighter with its cargo of 34,000 tons of bombs was bound for Thailand when it was diverted to Cambodia over the weekend. The vessel is currently anchored about six miles off Si-hanoukville in the Gulf of Siam in the South China Sea.

Three Stay Aboard

All but three members of the crew have been taken ashore and appeared in good condition, authorities said. The three remaining on board were acting as caretakers.

An embassy spokesman said those permitted to leave the ship included the captain, Donald A. Swann, 51, of Portland, Ore.

The Pentagon, meanwhile, dispatched the destroyer USS Turner Joy and eight other American ships into the area.

This was described as a contingency move.

Phony Bomb Scare

According to information released by the Pentagon, the two men apparently took control of the ship by seizing some senior crewmen. A phony bomb scare was used to put 24 crewmen to sea in lifeboats.

When the lifeboats were about a mile from the ship, authorities said, the Columbia Eagle suddenly steamed off. The 24 crewmen were later picked up by another American merchant vessel en route to Thailand.

The Columbia Eagle was under charter to the Defense Department and owned by Columbia Steamship Co. of Portland, Ore.

Draft Protesters Load Their Guns

By The Associated Press

Protests in Milwaukee and San Antonio, Tex., and distribution in schools of "We Won't Go" petitions have marked the beginning of a week of nationwide antidraft demonstrations.

A man dressed to represent the "Spectre of Death" carried out a solitary vigil Monday at the San Antonio draft board offices and the protesters in Milwaukee marched on a courthouse.

In Norfolk, Va., the draft board was evacuated following a telephoned bomb scare. No bomb was found.

The nationwide protest campaign, sponsored by the New Mobilization Committee To End the War in Vietnam, is planned to extend to more than 100 cities by the end of the week.

The "New Move," as the diverse coalition is nicknamed, has called for a variety of protests, including "nonviolent, orderly civil disobedience" aimed at hindering or shutting down draft offices.

The figure in San Antonio sat undisturbed in black robes and with white paint covering his hands, face and feet. Others planned to relieve him so the protest could continue all week.

In Milwaukee, Michael Cullen, whose trial on charges of burning draft records began Monday, led a march of 90 draft opponents to the opening session at the U.S. District Court. Thirteen other defendants were being held in jail.

The Strategic Air Command announced Monday in Omaha, Neb., that extra security precautions were being ordered at all SAC bases. Col. John B. Voss, a SAC spokesman declined to say if the precautions, which include identification card checks and questioning of base visitors, were ordered in response to the antidraft campaign.

Antidraft demonstrations were announced Monday in Durham, N.C., and Kansas City, Mo.

Singer Dies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tammi Terrell, the Motown Records star who teamed with Marvin Gaye on several hits and was a star in her own right, died Monday in Graduate Hospital in Philadelphia. The 24-year-old singer had fought against a brain tumor since the summer of 1967.

Bill Proposed To Stop Unrest On Campus

Badly Written Measure Hit By Objections

LANSING (AP) — A bill proponents say might help "restore peace and quiet on college campuses" faces final action in the Michigan Senate despite objections that it is "desperately badly written."

The Senate took no vote on the bill today before recessing for committee work. Final action was not expected until later in the week.

Left unmentioned in preliminary Senate debate Monday night was the recent report to the special committee probing campus disorders.

No New Laws

The report did not indicate disturbances "could be corrected by any new laws," Committee Chairman Robert Huber, Troy, said when the document was released.

Huber, who also had carefully specified the report was that of a consulting firm and had not yet been accepted by his committee, was not present for the Monday evening Senate session.

The bill, which passed the House earlier this year, would make it a misdemeanor for a person to refuse to leave a publicly-owned campus building or grounds after having been ordered away by the chief administrative officer or his designee.

Penalties Set

Penalty for violating the law would be a mandatory $250-$1,000 fine or 30 days in jail.

Sen. Basil Brown, D-Highland Park, an attorney, questioned wording in the bill and tried to send it to the Judiciary Committee for further study.

Brown said it was "totally ridiculous" for the Senate Education Committee, which had dealt with the bill, to report out a penal measure "without regard to the penal provisions." His motion lost on a voice vote.

Education Chairman Anthony Stamm, R-Kalamazoo, suggested the measure was "possibly a very helpful bill in order to restore peace and quiet to college campuses."

School Bill Nixed

In other action, the Senate postponed for one week any action on House amendments to the now-$1.2 billion state school aid bill. The measure totals some $247.8 million more than when the Senate passed it late last year.

Sources suggested the Senate might be biding time, waiting to see what the House would do with a companion bill aimed at raising as much as $400 million in revenue to pay for the mammoth education measure that also contains $22 million in parochial aid.

The House took no action on the tax measure Monday night.

N. Vietnamese Troops On Move Toward Base

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — North Vietnamese troops are moving south from the Plain of Jars toward the major Laotian government base at Sam Thong, informed sources in Vientiane reported today.

"The enemy apparently has begun a thrust on Sam Thong," said one source, "but full reports are not yet available. The situation is quite serious in the Sam Thong area."

Informed sources said American transport planes evacuated 200 Laotian hospital cases as a precautionary measure. The U.S. Embassy was reported considering evacuating as many as 20 American aid personnel from Sam Thong should the situation worsen.

"The situation is bad," said one official. "Should it get worse we wouldn't hesitate to pull the Americans out."

The sources said the North Vietnamese during the night seized a dirt airstrip at Tha Tam Bleung, six miles north-east of Sam Thong, and captured another position at Phou Pa Xai, about 10 miles east of Sam Thong.

UMW Pension Fund Probe On

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate labor investigations subcommittee called a new round of hearings today into charges United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle misused union pension funds in his reelection campaign.

The panel called George Judy and Josephine Roche, two of the three trustees who administer the UMW's multimillion welfare and retirement fund, to testify. Boyle, the third trustee, will appear Wednesday.

A spokesman for the committee headed by Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., had said testimony would center on a 30 per cent increase in monthly pension benefits "to determine whether it was based on sound actuarial judgment or to influence the election outcome."

The increase, totaling some $30 million annually for 70,000 voting UMW pensioners, was granted last June 24, the day after the 65-year-old Boyle became a trustee.

Williams said Miss Roche, longtime director and the neutral trustee of the fund, was not present at a meeting during which Boyle and Judy voted the increase.

The pension fund is jointly administered by the union and the coal industry, which contributes 40 cents for each ton of coal dug from UMW-organized mines. Boyle is the union trustee; Judy the industry trustee.

The fund is only part of the subcommittee's investigation, which opened last month with charges that Boyle and other UMW officials worked in collusion with mine operators, maintained a blacklist and interfered with local union elections.

The charges were leveled by the sons and three rank-and-file supporters of slain UMW insurgent Joseph A. Yablonski.

Carswell Foes Planning Stall

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opponents of G. Harrold Carswell's Supreme Court nomination are talking about stringing out Senate debate past Easter in hopes of "awakening the country" against confirmation.

Democratic Sens. Philip A. Hart of Michigan and Birch Bayh of Indiana in saying Monday a vote probably would not come until after the March 29 Easter weekend, denied again any intention to filibuster.

The two anti-Carswell leaders added they didn't expect lengthened debate to uncover any new evidence to further support charges that the Tallahassee, Fla., federal judge has a racist background and a mediocre judicial record.

"We've got a solid case right now" anyway, Bayh told a newsman after the debate officially started Monday. Hart added that he hoped extended debate would develop "bits and pieces" that would arouse the citizenry to his side.

He said the first day of debate yielded one such development—a statement by Sen. Roman L. Hruska, the nomination's floor manager, that mediocre people probably were entitled to be represented on the bench.

Lebanon Border Site Under Fire

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli troops shelled Lebanon's southern border today after Arab guerrillas fired bazooka shells at an Israeli outpost in upper Galilee, the military command said.

A spokesman said there was no damage to the Israeli positions, but he reported one soldier killed by Egyptian mortar fire Monday night on the Suez Canal front.

Lebanon said Israeli mortars hit three villages, killed two civilians including a 2-year-old child, and injured five persons. Lebanese artillery returned the fire and the exchange lasted for 30 minutes, said a Lebanese communique.

West Pointer Now 'Objector'

NEW YORK (AP) — A young West Point graduate serving as a first lieutenant in the Army has applied for discharge as a conscientious objector based on his conviction "that the Vietnam war is immoral and unjust."

Lt. Louis P. Font, 23, of Kansas City, Kan., quoted sections from the West Point Cadets Prayer in his 47-page application for discharge submitted Feb. 27.

He scheduled a news conference to discuss his action today at the national headquarters of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Font placed 31st in his class of 706 cadets at the academy. After graduation in 1968 he enrolled at the John F. Kennedy School of Public Affairs at Harvard University in a program for "distinguished military graduates."

"I did not suddenly become a pacifist," Font said in an interview. "I've been thinking about the (Vietnam) war since my senior year at West Point. The My Lai incident helped me make up my mind."

"At West Point I was really interested in foreign policy, when I went to grad school I was still interested in foreign policy. I took a course under Henry Kissinger (now President Nixon's assistant for national security affairs) and the more I learned about Vietnam the more I leaned toward CO."

At Harvard he was studying for a master's degree in political science, which he was to have received in June. Last Friday he received oral orders from his Army superiors to leave the school and report to Ft. Meade, Md.

In his application Font mentioned his Methodist background and quoted a line from the cadet's prayer: "Make us choose the harder right instead of the easier wrong, and never to be content with a half-truth when the whole can be won."

VC Battalion Blasts Target In Cambodia

CHAU DOC, Vietnam (AP) — Cambodian troops tried to drive a Viet Cong battalion back across the border into South Vietnam Sunday and Monday and called in South Vietnamese artillery fire to help, highly reliable informants reported today.

A Cambodian officer was in radio contact with the chief of South Vietnam's An Phu District, adjoining Cambodia, during the entire operation, these informants said. The officer directed 105mm artillery fire from the district's guns onto both sides of the border where the Viet Cong were moving.

American officials said it was the first time they knew of Cambodians and South Vietnamese working together openly against the Viet Cong.

This Cambodian military operation was the second known to have been launched Sunday against Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces which the Cambodian government had ordered to quit its territory by dawn Sunday.

For four hours before the deadline a Cambodian battalion exchanged fire with infantrymen guarding the base of the North Vietnamese 1st Infantry Division around Nui O Mountain inside Cambodia.

South Vietnamese forces were not called in then, but their aid was sought later Sunday when an estimated five companies of Cambodian infantry reportedly began pushing south toward the An Phu District, which thrusts into Cambodia along the Mekong River like a finger.

The Viet Cong were known to have at least 400 troops in a base area just opposite the tip of An Phu.

Campaign Plan Told By Green

Nino Green, Democratic candidate for Congress in the 11th Congressional District, Monday night discussed his campaign plans at a meeting of the Delta County Democratic Women's Organization held at the home of its president, Mrs. Ann Villeneuve.

Green, who announced his candidacy in January, said his campaign would be built upon grass roots organization in each of the 22 counties that comprise the District. He indicated he had been meeting with county-based organizations and that he had already discovered a high level of interest and enthusiasm.

Green criticized what he called "the silent majority myth," and stated that it was unfortunate that "the Nixon administration isn't listening to the American people."

"The majority of the Americans are not going to remain silent in the face of rising unemployment and galloping inflation. We are not willing to sacrifice social progress to a 'Southern strategy' anymore than we are willing to allow that progress to be obstructed by violent demonstrations in our streets," he said.

"A great many people give unselfishly of their time, year in and year out, in furtherance of the principles and programs of the Democratic Party and in support of Democratic candidates at all levels of public office," Green said.

"They receive no personal gain and too little recognition for their efforts. Because they are the people who persuaded me to become a candidate, this campaign will be responsive to their views and hopes and it will focus upon the problems and issues with which they are most concerned."

A petition drive to place Green's name on the ballot will be initiated in April.

Lions Club Votes Opposition To Mead Kraft Mill

The Ford River Lions Club in recent meeting unanimously adopted a resolution authorizing President Dale Kivi to direct a letter to the Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission opposing Mead Corp's application for a permit to construct a kraft paper mill.

A hearing on the permit is being held in Lansing today. There has been much discussion in the Delta County area concerning the proposed kraft paper mill because of the offensive odors caused by such plants elsewhere.

The Ford River Lions ask the state to reject the Mead application for a permit.

In other business the Lions heard District Governor Ralph Anderson of Escanaba report on activities club's may sponsor for the benefit of their communities; and the club voted support of legislation for Michigan Industries for the Blind.

Fish Consumers Ignored, Says Fish Producers

The dire situation of the commercial fishing industry in Michigan was explained to the Escanaba Kiwanis Club by Roy Jensen, Escanaba, Monday noon.

The Jensen name has been synonymous with the fishing industry almost throughout the entire history of Escanaba, Roy, continuing to follow the family tradition, holds the titles of executive secretary of the Michigan Fish Producers Association, advisor to the International Great Lakes Fishing Commission, and is also advisor to the State of Michigan Great Lakes Fish Committee.

Jensen is active in all the sportsmen's associations also, for he feels there is just as great importance in sport fishing, but for his talk, he stressed the importance of putting fish on the table for the 7½ million people of Michigan who have neither the time or occasion to fish for themselves.

Put Out Of Business
The term "commercial fishing" should be set aside in favor of a more tasteful term of fish producing, Jensen said, as the trade is really no different than the harvesting of crops by a farmer. The fish producers have been blamed for the low periods of a certain species of fish, but in reality, 20 to 25 million pounds of fish that are produced annually by the industry show that the take of species vary as the species' own production goes up and down.

In 1969, 87 men, women and children were dependent on the fishing industry on the Garden Peninsula alone, not to mention the men it took to cut the more than 1,000 board feet of lumber to make up the fish boxes, he reported. Because of the new laws by the Department of Natural Resources, the number of people who can make their living in the fishing industry is practically gone, he added.

In Little Bay de Noc alone, the fish producers should have been harvesting the smelt and whitefish throughout the winter, as had always been the custom, but the DNR has restricted the fishing to an area which excludes both the Bays de Noc, he said.

Commercial fishing licenses too have been raised from $16 to more than $200 in just a short time, and now there are about 200 licenses sold in the state, where there were more than 700 in 1967.

Coho Come First
These restrictions are only making it a better market for the Canadian fishermen, Jensen said.

Jensen feels that many of these laws were made because of the planting of the coho salmon, a measure that was taken without enough forethought. The original planting with the eggs from the Pacific Coast strain was strong enough that the salmon did return to the parent stream, but naturally reproduced salmon have flooded every stream on Lake Michigan. Better use of the salmon could have been made by allowing the fish producers to harvest some of the fish in the summer when the meat was more palatable, but the suggestion was refused by the DNR. The salmon have also been found to have consumed large quantities of our game fish such as the trout and perch.

All in all, although in complete favor of sport fishing, Jensen believes that the 7½ million people in the state who depend on the fish producers to put fish on their tables, should have a say in more lenient laws, which will improve the fishing both for sport and commercially.

The first oil pipelines in the United States were laid about 1867, because there were not enough oaken barrels to transport all the oil being produced.

Salvaging Elm Trees Business For Lansing Men

What good are a lot of old diseased elm trees? For two Lansing - area businessmen, John and Robert Peterson, the waste trees were good enough to start a business that is attracting statewide—and even national—attention.

John and Robert are the sons of Mrs. Karen Peterson. Mrs. Peterson, formerly of Soo Hill, is now living in Evanston, Ill. The young men attended high school here.

Equally important in the eyes of the Peterson brothers is that taking care of the elms—and other waste wood—is helping solve a significant pollution problem, writes Norris Ingells in the Lansing State Journal.

Both are highly-concerned about the environmental crisis the notice faces. "I think we are in deep, deep trouble," Robert observed. John agrees. "The situation is pretty serious," he declared. "It's about time someone did something about it."

The steps that led to establishing Peterson Woodchip Products actually began about a year ago when the two men read of all the trouble the City of Lansing was having getting rid of diseased elms and other waste wood.

Now the Petersons have developed a plant in which the unwanted elms are salvaged and converted into a variety of uses, from fireplace wood to wood chips for driveways.

Seen Any Wildlife?

"Seen Any Wildlife Lately?"

The National Wildlife Federation of Washington, D.C. and state affiliates, primarily conservation and sportsmen's clubs are asking that question this week during National Wildlife Week. And while the question can be answered in the affirmative more often in the Upper Peninsula where there still are some trout in the streams and deer in the woods than in the monuments to concrete like Chicago, New York and Detroit, there is still reason to pause to consider it.

The National Federation makes these points:

"The biggest or smallest animal can provide a measure of the environment. . . . Wildlife cannot survive in a world that is polluted. You will not see many animals where plants have disappeared, and the water is filthy with pollution and the skies are gray with smoke.

"Across America today there are too many places where you can never see any wildlife. In some places all you might discover are a few sewer rats or a soot covered pigeon searching the streets for a meal. Rivers flowing past our towns have been allowed to kill off every living thing that once splashed in their waters. The saddest part of this story is that someday if we allow all of the green spaces to vanish and we ruin all of the waters, and choke all of the skies with pollution people won't be able to survive either."

Last year, the National Wildlife Federation compiled its first Index of Environmental Quality in an effort to determine where the nation stands, an "annual yardstick to measure our progress — or lack of it," according to Thomas L. Kimball, executive director of the federation.

Kimball said that facts were hard to come by, that the nation is only beginning to monitor pollutants and that the first EQ index is only "our best educated guess on where we stand" but the picture is not good. Air quality is rated very bad, water as bad and soil, forests and wildlife as fair. The mineral index was rated good, but even here a "loss trend" is indicated since 1965. Overall the environmental quality is considered poor. Here are some of the Federation's reasons:

Annually there are 142 million tons of pollutants poured into the air, 86 million tons from motor vehicles, the report said. More than 2,600 communities still discharge raw sewage into waterways. In 1968, an estimated 15,236,000 fish were killed by water pollution in the United States. Some 180 million acres are affected by water and wind erosion. In 1967, there were only 78 endangered species of wildlife, but that figure had jumped to 89 by 1969.

Despite the somewhat gloomy picture, the Wildlife Federation does not believe all is lost. The time, however, is growing short.

"Unless we immediately zero in on this problem with our most powerful technological guns, we run the risk of destroying this earth as a desirable place for life and the pursuit of happiness," Kimball said.

Those words should carry a special message for the Upper Peninsula, an area where natural resources and a healthy environment are the most valuable assets.

Pollution exists in the U.P. — some of it locally severe as the weather bureau says about thunderstorms — but because of the sparse population and large area the Environmental Quality Index must be still on the plus side.

Yes, we have seen some wildlife lately. That answer must never be allowed to change.

The Family Lawyer

Gambling At Home

Seated at a kitchen table, the home owner and the next-door neighbor were intent upon their little game of poker. But a passing policeman, glancing through the window, decided they were breaking the law and placed them under arrest.

At the trial, the prosecutor told the court: "What makes their game a crime is the fact that they were playing for money. It so happens that gambling is against the law."

Nevertheless, the court found the men not guilty. The judge said gambling is not criminal if it takes place within the "sanctity" of the home.

Most anti-gambling laws do make an exception, either expressly or by implication, for the private home. The theory is that, within these limits, society should not mix in.

However, even a private home may become "public" enough for the community to become concerned. Consider this case:

A home owner and his family went away for a vacation, leaving a house guest on the premises. The house guest promptly threw the place open for dice and poker games, with all comers welcome.

In short order he was arrested, tried, and found guilty of violating the local gambling ordinance. The judge said the mere fact that the gambling took place within a private residence did not change the public character of the activities.

What if the gambling takes place on private premises, but not within the house itself?

Generally, it is a matter of degree. In one case, a farmer and his cronies did their gambling in a storage building, about 250 yards behind the farmhouse. When arrested, they claimed the immunity of a private residence.

However, the court could not see things that way. Finding them guilty as charged, the judge pointed out that the building 1) had no furniture, and 2) was never used for sleeping. Its mere physical nearness to the farmhouse, said the judge was not enough to confer upon it the special "sanctity" of a real home.

NURSEMAID'S DILEMMA

'Scare' Diplomacy May Ignite Soviets, Reds

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Whether or not the Soviets have ever really contemplated waging "preventive" war against Red China, they are certainly not averse to keeping Mao Tse-tung worried about the possibility of a lightning descent on Peking's atomic installations. Every recent Soviet move on the propaganda chessboard seems directed toward giving the Peking Reds the screaming meemies.

To the West, the Soviet move into Czechoslovakia was an unsettling thing for humanitarian reasons. But to Peking it must seem something quite different.

As Maoists must look at it, the only possible reason Moscow should try to put a clamp on the Czechs would be to bat down the western hatches in order to bring more power to bear on the Far East. The SALT discussions on atomic armament limitation, the acceptance of a treaty limiting the spread of nuclear weapons, and all other "collaboration" with the "capitalist" and "revisionist" nations looking toward atomic disarmament, would, in the eyes of the Maoists, be designed to justify a "preventive" knock-out blow against Red China's own nuclear testing grounds.

Similarly the recent Soviet warning to Austria to pipe down on criticism of the Warsaw Pact nations' invasion of Czechoslovakia must seem part of the pattern.

The Soviets, according to the Radio Liberty translators, have been perturbed by Austrian interest in establishing diplomatic relations with Red China. Radio Moscow has complained of Vienna's "one-sided" interpretation of neutrality, and the suggestion has been put forward that if Austria contemplates coddling up to Red China diplomatically it must, to prove its "neutral" sincerity, make the same sort of gesture toward the East Germans. To Peking, this is just one more Soviet move to keep the western front cool while the real military strength of the Soviet Union is deployed in Siberia.

A further clincher, as it must seem to Peking, is the use being made of an article by Marshal Zakharov, the Chief of Staff of the Soviet armed forces, who has been making factual observations on the Soviet military campaign in Manchuria in 1945.

Since the observations are certainly relevant to any military operations in the Far East, it could be concluded that Zakharov has been lending his support to a Soviet campaign of pressure against Mao Tse-tung. Victor Zorza, writing in The Guardian (of Britain), has jumped to just such a conclusion, saying that the Soviet marshal has executed a "180-degree turn" from his previous commitment to purely defensive military policy.

As a witness to the terrible cost of World War II, in which the Soviets lost 7.5 million members (battle front dead) out of an armed force that, at peak, consisted of 12,000,000 soldiers, aviators and sailors, Marshal Zakharov probably still adheres to the Leninist thesis that adventurism is not something to be risked lightly. The Russians always fight best when defending their homeland; therefore, offensive wars should be avoided.

But diplomacy is something else again: Zakharov would not interfere with a Soviet foreign policy attempt to keep Mao Tse-tung off balance even though, in private, he might still argue against a "preventive" war that would leave Russia exposed as an aggressor nation.

Finally, there is the evidence that the Soviet people are being mobilized for a production drive that is justified by the need for arming the nation against a "threat from the East."

campaigns, printing letter after letter complaining against "shirkers," "loafers," "slovenly drunkards," "parasites," "job-changers," and "violators of discipline." Pravda has urged that the labor shortage in one of the provinces be liquidated by compelling "several thousand students" in correspondence and night schools to go to work.

Apparently Leonid Brezhnev, the party General Secretary, has made a secret report on the need to "tighten the screws" on the Soviet labor force. Pravda's lead editorial for January 17 supported proposals for a "Communist Saturday" during which workers and employers would be asked to work without pay.

None of this necessarily proves that the Soviets would actually attack the Red Chinese without extreme provocation. But the great totalitarian ship of state is obviously being prepared for a possible rough voyage. The idea may be only to scare Mao Tse-tung into relaxing the Red Chinese propaganda war against Moscow "revisionists."

But what if Mao counters by stepping up his own scare campaign? Most wars are detonated by accidental misunderstanding, and there could be an accident somewhere along the long inner Asian border that separates the two totalitarian giants.

Opening lead—king of hearts.

Two-way finesses against a queen are the bane of many a bridge player's existence, but they are not quite as difficult to solve as they're cracked up to be.

Declarer can usually guess right if he puts his mind to the problem. There is practically always enough information lying around to pave the way to the location of the queen, and all that declarer has to do is assemble and then carefully assess this information to reach the right conclusion.

Let's say you're in five diamonds and West cashes the A-K of hearts and continues with the jack. You ruff in dummy, East throwing a club, and there you are, sure to make the contract if you could only locate the queen of clubs.

The queen is finessable in two directions, but which way to finesse — through East or West—is the crucial question. You don't solve such problems by mentally flipping a coin — there's much more to it than that. Instead you first try to learn everything you can about the makeup of the opponents' hands.

You've already noted one important clue—that West started with six hearts and East with two. If you could also learn how the spades and diamonds are divided, you'd be in much better position to deal with the clubs.

You start by cashing the ace of spades and trumping a spade. Then you draw two rounds of trumps, ending in dummy. In the process you discover that the diamonds were divided 2-2. Now you cash the king of spades, discarding a club, and ruff the ten of spades, learning that the spades were divided 4-4.

The picture is at long last complete. West originally had four spades, six hearts and two diamonds—hence, precisely one club. So you play a club to the king and a club back. When East follows low you confidently finesse, for you know positively that the finesse will succeed.

Ann Landers

Life Isn't Always Just Bed Of Roses

Dear Ann Landers: I wonder if your readers—millions of them—realize how lucky they are? I am referring to those vast multitudes who go about their daily business with nothing more than the ordinary, everyday problems—a nosy mother-in-law, a demanding boss, a two-faced girl friend, an unfaithful sweetheart, a free-loading relative, a bad investment, a kid who won't get a haircut—you know what I mean, Ann.

Many people believe they know what happiness is. But how many know what happiness ISN'T? I hope the folks who read this will take a good look at their lives. It might help them realize how fortunate they are.

Happiness is not getting that telegram: "We regret to inform you that your son was killed in action."

Happiness is not getting a laboratory report which reads: "Malignant."

Happiness is not hearing the words in the delivery room: "Your baby didn't live."

Happiness is not receiving a phone call after midnight saying: "This is Doctor J at the emergency hospital. Your son was in a serious accident."

I hope you won't consider this letter too depressing to print. In fact, it might make some of your readers view their small sorrows in a different light.—Austin, Minnesota

Dear Austin: We all tend to become myopic. A letter like yours can help us maintain a good balance. Thanks for putting life's problems in perspective.

Dear Ann Landers: A bomb was dropped on our home several months ago. Our 16-year-old daughter told us she was pregnant and didn't know who the father was. My husband and I were shocked. Fay didn't date much. She led us to believe she didn't care for boys. We sent her to Florence Crittenton. She put the baby up for adoption. That same month she came home and reentered high school.

Fay has been back two months and I hate the sight of her. My husband has been able to forgive her, but I can't. Whenever I look at that girl, I see a lying, two-faced slut. I can't believe a word she says. She has gained about 15 pounds and still looks pregnant, which I find revolting.

My husband takes Fay's side in every argument. It is the two of them against me. I feel persecuted and left out. That girl is ruining my life. What can I do?—Texas Heartache

Dear Texas: Your hostility toward your daughter is pathological. Get professional help and rid yourself of the hate in your heart. It is destroying you.

Dear Readers: Have you had a good laugh today? If not—this might be it. Recently I printed this Confidential to Too Long The Night: "Send a self-addressed and stamped envelope and I will tell you why you had troubles and what to do about it."

To date, I have received 17 self-addressed and stamped envelopes from people who want to know why they had trouble and what to do about it. Only one person will get a reply. That person lives in Omaha, Nebraska, and he must send me a letter repeating the facts as they appeared in the original letter. (My, but there are lots of nosy folks in this world!)

"The Bride's Guide," Ann Landers' booklet, answers some of the most frequently asked questions about weddings. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35c in coin.

Supersonic Airliners Sure To Pose Problem

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Will the commercial supersonic transport, scheduled for use in 1978, be permitted to fly over populated areas, accompanied by a sonic boom that some critics say will be loud as a bomb?

Place your bets. Those concerned with environment say it cannot be permitted. Critics remind anyone who will listen that technology has a way of rolling along against all obstacles, including human cries.

The anti-SST forces, which include myriad groups and individuals, have focused on the threatened noise pollution as their most potent weapon. But curiously, they seem to ignore equally hazardous effects.

Consider some of them, taken from a report to President Nixon last fall:

"Passengers and crew will be vulnerable to a number of potentially serious physical, physiological and psychological stresses associated with rapid acceleration, gravitational changes, reduced barometric pressure . . ."

A loss of pressure at 65,000 feet, we are reminded, would result in all aboard losing consciousness within 15 seconds. If those aren't problems enough, there are environmental effects to deal with, such as: "Persistent contrails might form to such an extent that there would be significant increases in cirrus clouds," perhaps altering weather patterns.

In a nation which has sent men to the moon, however, there is confidence that many of these problems will be licked routinely by the application of technology. But that confidence appears lacking in regard to the sonic boom.

Even Boeing Company engineers concede the problem is an obstacle, and present plans call for flights only over water. That is the public stance of both government, which is helping finance the project, and the builder.

Groups such as the Citizens League Against the Sonic Boom don't believe them and are making so much noise about the issue that they have ears ringing all the way from their Cambridge, Mass., headquarters to Boeing's Seattle offices.

Asked about the matter, E. H. "Tex" Bouliouin, vice president and general manager of the commercial airplane group at Boeing, reiterated Boeing's stand that the plane was not planned for domestic flights.

However, he added, "I as a person predict that there will be renewed interest in flying the SST domestically. That interest is very small now. We've got very few studies on domestic routes compared with international."

Bouliouin, a low keyed engineer with a record of brilliant achievements on complex projects, obviously believes that someday the SST can be an overland craft but he is resigned, he said, to letting the argument be settled by the two prototypes now being built by Boeing.

"We'll prove it with the prototypes," he said. "We can't win in the meantime. I just don't think that when we get it flying, and people see it, they're going to find it that bad."

But, to paraphrase, the anti-SST folks are saying, "Let's not wait. If regulations are not adopted now the airlines will claim later that economics demand that they use their SSTs over populated areas."

Only 25 million people live in Siberia, a region larger than the United States and Mexico combined.

Approval Of Mead Mill Is Indicated

By DAVE ANDREWS
(Of Panax Newspapers)

LANSING—The Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission, from indications evident here this morning, may grant Mead Corp. a permit to build a kraft paper mill at Escanaba—conditioned on the inclusion of safety factors that would protect the public.

Commission Chairman John Soet presided at the hearing that started shortly after 10 a.m.

Mead seeks Commission approval of its plans for a $65 million dollar kraft paper plant, a cost figure that has been revised upward by about $15 million.

Speaking for Mead were O. C. Christensen, general manager, Escanaba; Henry Caidwell, assistant to the executive vice president; and James S. Evans, Dayton, corporation group vice president.

Controls Considered

Commission member Morton Sterling, Detroit, asked if it is possible for the Commission to incorporate in an order safety factors that would protect the public in event of a plant malfunction. Mead representatives indicated such a restriction requiring closing might be acceptable in an order.

"Automatic interlocks" in a plant computer control system that would close the operation in the event of a breakdown are possible, Mead said.

Bernard Bloomfield of the Commission reported that the American Can Co. has a kraft paper mill operating since last year at Halc, Ore., that is "essentially an odor free operation."

Christensen told the Commission that Mead plans to employ all the latest techniques in construction of the new plant and that it is now possible to build a plant that is odor-free and one of which the Escanaba community will be proud.

The Mead people completed their presentation shortly before noon.

Yet to be heard are representatives of other groups including the Delta County Citizens Committee to Save Our Air. In Lansing from the SOA are Amer Pederson, president, John Walbridge, Ray Sabuco, Ed Griffin and Milton Bergman.

The Delta County Board of Supervisors is represented by Chairman Frank Stupak, Stanley

Dominic and H. George Nelson.

Additional groups including ENACT and others concerned with environmental protection are expected to testify.

Big Project

The pulp mill is part of a $100 million expansion of the Escanaba Paper Co. by Mead to transform the Escanaba mill into a modern Publishing Papers Center designed to produce high quality paper for magazine publishing.

Company officials pointed out that the mill is an integral part of the entire expansion program to provide the volume of pulp needed for the monstrous third paper machine which started production last fall. A fourth paper machine is programmed for future development.

"The total project is the largest single capital expenditure ever made by Mead within the corporation," the company reported.

Forest Usage

Plans for the pulp mill call for a production of 650 tons of pulp per day. Presently, the groundwood pulp mill at Escanaba produces only about 106 tons per day. The rest of the paper mill's pulp must be shipped to Escanaba.

The kraft process was ordered, company officials said, because it produces a paper of high strength and opacity which meets the need for lightweight magazine and book publishing papers. The process also permits pulping of virtually all Upper Peninsula tree species which will be needed as the volume of wood jumps from about 35,000 cords annually to 350,000 cords.

The company expects 25 to 50 additional jobs to be created by the pulp mill, plus 300 to 400 jobs in the woods supplying timber.

Census Plans Revealed At Lions Meeting

About half a million dollars will be spent for collecting census information in the Upper Peninsula. Mrs. Gloria Hansley, district manager for the United States Census Bureau said in a meeting at the Escanaba Lions Club last night, that the cost for the 1970 census in the U.S. would cost $210 million dollars, which averages 25 cents per person. The Upper Peninsula, which is classified as one district, will absorb about a half million dollars of that cost.

Mrs. Hansley said, "We don't know where we are going, until we know where we are." She said census forms would be mailed to all residents of the U.P. beginning April 1. The forms will then be picked up by a staff of 400 enumerators, employed specifically for this purpose, in a house-to-house canvass. "The reason for this is to offer assistance to anyone who needs it in filling out the forms, and also to eliminate the possibility of missing anyone," she said. This conventional method has proved to be the most successful for areas like the U.P., it was noted.

Mrs. Hansley stated that answering these forms is required by law and the information contained in these forms will be kept strictly confidential. No other agency, including the government, will have access to this information. Names will be eliminated after they reach the statistics office, as they are not necessary for this report, once the information has been obtained. Every employee is sworn to oath, to keep all information confidential, it was revealed.

Mrs. Hansley said the census data will be handled by computer for the first time, and because of this, residents are required to fill the forms out in black ink or pencil. By use of the computer the census bureau will be able to furnish all the census information by this summer.

The first census was taken in 1790, and every 10 years since. The bureau plans on making a housing count as well as a population count, making this the most complete and accurate report in history.

In addition to the guest speaker, the Lions also discussed the final plans for the Lions Club district bowling tournament in Norway, Mich.

NFL, TV Face Federal Count

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The National Football League, 13 of its clubs and three major television networks have been charged in federal court with price fixing and allocating markets and time slots in connection with closed-circuit showings of pro games.

Suit was brought in U.S. District Court Monday by Management Television Systems, Inc., a closed-circuit television firm based in New York.

It alleges the defendants refused to negotiate with the company for closed circuit showings of special games, like the Super Bowl, in violation of the Clayton Antitrust Act.

Charging monopolistic practices in restraint of trade since the fall of 1969, the defendants asked damages and a stop to the alleged practices.

Bruce W. Kauffman, who filed the complaint, said no figure was set but the amount sought was substantial.

The action was filed here because "all defendants are found or are transacting business within the Eastern District of Pennsylvania," said Kauffman. Clubs named in the suit include: Atlanta Falcons, Chicago Bears, Dallas Cowboys, Detroit Lions, Green Bay Packers, Los Angeles Rams, Minnesota Vikings, New Orleans Saints.

Also New York Giants, Philadelphia Eagles, St. Louis Cardinals, San Francisco 49ers, Cleveland Browns, Pittsburgh Steelers, Pro Football Inc., of Washington, D.C., and Baltimore Football Club.

The networks named are: Columbia Broadcasting System, National Broadcasting Co. and the American Broadcasting Co.

President of Management Television Systems, Inc. is E. William Henry, a former chairman of the Federal Communications Commission.

SO YOU THINK THE DANGERS OF INFLATION ARE BEING INFLATED?

When you plan retirement around a fixed number of dollars, you're gambling that living costs and taxes won't increase enough to upset those plans. So before you take your financial future for granted, take a look at the past. In 1933, $565 bought a new Plymouth convertible. If you'd socked away $5,000 in 1939, now you'd have to put $8,646 with it to come up with the same buying power. Think Uncle Sam will save us? He's busy trying to keep his 1950 penny postcards down to a nickel. The right mutual fund could help. Although cost of living may run contrary to the securities market for short periods, over a longer time the value of well-selected securities has far exceeded the effect of inflation. By all means, recognize the risks in mutual funds and in any form of investing. Also consider the possibly greater risk in doing nothing. Check with a professional inflation-fighter. # Are you going to go through another year thinking you can't afford an Oldsmobile?

Our own surveys indicate that quite a few people think an Oldsmobile is out of their reach. They think it costs a lot more than it really does. Result? Many people buy an ordinary car and end up with a lot less car and value for their money.

It's so unnecessary, too, because Oldsmobile has many models that are priced right down with the so-called low-priced cars. So why settle for the ordinary when you can step up to an Olds and all the value that an Olds represents. Take this big, exciting Delta 88, for example. It starts out with a surprisingly modest price. Add to this the features that make it such an outstanding value—extras that are included in the modest price: □ Regular-gas Rocket V-8 □ Power Steering □ Power Brakes, front discs □ Nylon-loop carpeting □ Bias-Belted Tires □ Door Side-Guard Beams □ Hidden Radio Antenna □ Flo-Thru Ventilation □ Bigger, better riding 124" wheelbase. ## Boys Save Puppy From Icy Death

A frightened puppy, one minute floating on a cake of ice in the Manistique Harbor and the next minute scrambling frantically to pull himself out of the water and back on the ice, was rescued by two teenage boys Sunday afternoon.

Robert Burnis, 14, and Billy Bauman, 13, were walking along the pier when they noticed the dog's distress. The boys lay down on the ice, holding each other, and pulled the young Irish Setter to safety. Bobby wrapped his jacket around the shivering puppy and the boys took him to the Michigan State Police Post where officers notified the dog's owner.

Bobby is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Herro, 310 Deer St. Billy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bauman, 205 N. Houghton Ave.

Youth 'Revolt' Given Backing By Scientist

EAST LANSING (AP) — The director of the National Science Foundation says that pressure from youth to make education more relevant to the needs of society is "the healthiest development in the recent history of education."

The remarks were made by Dr. William McElroy in a speech Sunday to some 1,300 winter-term graduates of Michigan State University.

At the same time, McElroy warned against what he termed the deposing of experts and reason.

He said he feared that if the entire job of running universities was turned over to students, "some of their wildest thinkers would depose all experts and establish amateurism upon the throne."

"If the ludicrousness of this position is not already apparent," he added, "consider what would happen if the professors and textbooks were cast out of medical schools and the freshmen medical students undertook to teach themselves."

McElroy was among four persons awarded honorary degrees by MSU.

Receiving honorary doctors of science degrees were McElroy, Dr. Emil Mrak, chancellor emeritus of the University of California-Davis; and Dr. Walter Malmann, MSU professor emeritus of microbiology and public health.

An honorary doctor of humane letters degree was presented to Dr. Fredric Lane of Johns Hopkins University.

Levin Sets Date For Announcement

LANSING (AP) — Sen. Sander Levin, who left his minority leadership post in the Michigan Senate to study his chances for grabbing the Democratic nomination for governor, plans to announce his decision by month's end.

Levin, a Berkeley attorney, said Monday he would announce his intentions at a March 30 news conference in Detroit.

In recent months, Levin, former Democratic state chairman, has noticeably changed his image, dropping rimmed glasses in favor of contact lenses and letting his brown curly hair grow longer.

Zoltan Ferency, another former Democratic state chairman and a once-defeated gubernatorial candidate, also has announced his intentions to run for the Democratic nomination to challenge incumbent Gov. William Milliken.

Wayne County Prosecutor William Cahalan also has been mentioned as a possible Democratic candidate.

Even without the million or more foreign visitors expected for Expo '70, Osaka would be crowded. Japan's second-largest city has 3,150,000 inhabitants and space is so valuable that land in parts of Osaka sells for nearly $600 a square yard.

I am asking the return of stock certificates which were in my safe when it was stolen over the weekend. The certificates are of no value to anyone; they are non-transferrable and non-negotiable yet are difficult to replace. Please send them back or contact me if you have information as to where they may be recovered.

Great Lakes 'To Stay Put' This Season

DETROIT (AP) — The Great Lakes will not rise to such shore-damaging heights this summer as they did in 1969, according to forecasts of the Lake Survey District of the Army Corps of Engineers.

Lakes Huron, Michigan and Erie, however, are expected to continue above both their averages for the last 10 years and for the 1860-1969 period.

At their summer heights, Superior and Ontario are expected virtually to parallel both the 10-year and long-term averages.

Lake Erie is expected to miss by at least a foot reaching the record heights it attained last July and August. It is expected to peak in June and begin its annual decline in July this year.

Lakes Michigan and Huron, which are joined by the Straits of Mackinac and always have identical levels, are expected to be two-tenths of a foot off their 1969 top, reached last August.

Superior, over which partial control is maintained by a system of gates across its St. Marys River outlet, is expected to be slightly below last summer's levels and virtually parallel with both its 10-year and long-term average heights.

Ontario, which also can be partially controlled, is expected to miss last year's top by three-tenths of a foot and, while topping its 10-year average a mere trifle, to be below its long-term average.

Lake St. Clair, a part of the connecting link between Huron and Erie, is expected to be four-tenths of a foot below last summer's high-water mark.

A dry 1969 fall and a lower than average winter snowfall in the Great Lakes basins are reported to have been major contributors toward this year's anticipated lower levels.

New Bible Goes On Sale Despite Debate On Style

LONDON (AP) — The New English Bible went on sale amid lively debate on its style and publishers' predictions of sales in the millions.

The new Bible is not a revision of previous versions but a new translation from Greek and Hebrew texts. Its publishers, the university presses of Oxford and Cambridge, claim it is "as truthful as human skill could make it—and carried out by the best scholars and translators that the churches possessed."

The translation was sponsored by all the major Christian churches in Britain except the Roman Catholic. The work took 12 years.

The new version drops most of the thees and thous which proliferate in the Authorized Version produced in Shakespeare's day. They are retained only in prayers and direct addresses to God.

The aim is simplicity and ready understanding. Reactions ranged from solid approval to disappointment.

There was similar controversy when the New English Bible's New Testament was published nine years ago. This has been revised slightly to meet criticisms made then.

Crusaders Face Rugged Foe In Quarterfinal Tilt Wednesday

BY MIKE UTT

Basketball games are not won on paper, but instead on a hardwood floor with baskets on both ends; and although Bay City All Saints seems to have a distinct advantage over the Holy Name Crusaders statistically, they still must prove themselves in action.

Holy Name, Class B champions of the Upper Peninsula, will face the Bay City quint Wednesday night at 7:30 at Alpena High School in one of four State Class B quarterfinal tournament contests, with the winner moving on to Lansing for a semifinal meeting with the winner of the RiverRouge-Lansing Gabriels quarter-final clash.

Bay City All Saints will take a 20-2 record into the game against the Crusaders. It also has some previous tournament experience, having lost to West Bloomfield in the quarterfinals last year by a 62-60 margin. Bay City, ranked fifth in the final Associated Press basketball poll, defeated Midland Dow 88-82 in the district finals and whipped Cedar Springs 87-68 in the regionals for the right to face the Crusaders Wednesday.

Bay City, which has been averaging 81.7 points per game while allowing just 65.1, is led by 6 foot 2 inch guard Al Laskowski. Laskowski is averaging 23.5 points per game coming into the contest and threw in a total of 516 points this season to give him a four-year career mark of 1,317.

Other Bay City starters include 6 foot 3 inch forwards Paul Pawlicki and Joe Jarvis, 6 foot 7 inch center Jerry Silas and 5 foot 10 inch guard Dan Matuszewski. Silas, who also weighs around 230 pounds, averaged 17.8 points per game this season and Pawlicki had 10.6 average. Jarvis and Matuszewski both averaged around six points a game.

Holy Name left for Alpena at 12:30 today and will work out at Alpena Catholic High School soon after its arrival.

Yesterday, at the Crusaders' final practice at home, Coach Gordy LeDuc praised his team's efforts in the regional championship game by saying, "It was a great team effort and that's just what we'll need downstate." Although LeDuc is in his first year at Holy Name, he is no stranger to state tournament competition, as he guided Marquette Bishop Baraga to the State Class D title last year.

LeDuc indicated that he would use the same starting lineup that he used in the regionals, putting Dan Young and

"Steve Kleiman came up with two great games in the regionals," said LeDuc. "We're hoping he can keep it up. Our guards (McGinn and Skradski) also worked well together. Billy impressed everybody, being only a sophomore, and Bobby played his usual excellent defense."

"The kids coming off the bench did a great job both nights. Gary Kleiman and Dave Maskart performed well Friday and Gary did such a fine job on Saturday that I was unable to get Young back in the game." Kleiman replaced Young late in the first quarter, after Young got in trouble with three fouls. Skradski, only a sophomore, leads the Crusaders in the scoring department with a total of 327 points for an average of 16.3 points per game, while Young has tossed in 297 points. Harvey 134, Kleiman 169 and McGinn 141.

Rebounding is Holy Name's strong point and it is well represented in that department by the 6 foot 5 inch Harvey, who has pulled down 308, including 67 in the past four games; 6 foot 3 inch Kleiman, who has 201, including 62 in his last four outings; and Young with 170.

The Crusaders will go into Wednesday night's contest with a record of 16 victories against 4 defeats thus far. They have scored a total of 1,321 points for an average of 66.1 points per game and have given up just 1,026 for a 51.3 average.

Tom Boyle paced the winners with 22 points and Dick Puddy chipped in with 21, while Fred Boddy took game honors with 25 points for Ness Construction.

Robinson's edged the Stone House by a 63-60 margin behind Mark Weber's 22 points and Bob Grenier's 16. Fred Woelfler led the losers with 16 points.

Wednesday's championship game will begin at 7 p.m.

Big Bay Quint Takes On Wakefield At Marquette

By DON HOWES

Speed versus height will be the name of the game when the Big Bay de Noc Black Bears tangle with the Wakefield Cardinals Wednesday night at 7:30 in the state quarterfinals at Marquette High School for the Upper Peninsula Class D championship. The winner will advance to Lansing for semi-final action against the winner of the Flint Holy Redeemer-Detroit St. Leo clash.

Wakefield, the team that has been classified as favorites, will have their hands full when the scrappy Black Bears hit the Marquette area. Big Bay is a team not to be denied of their ranking and after watching Eben's determined drive against the taller Cardinals, it's hard to see them favored, but in tomorrow night's showdown the record books are out and its like a new season all over again. It's up to the Black Bears to see if the season will be long or short.

Big Bay's speedy Black Bears will place a gaudy nine-game winning streak on the line, as well as their very impressive 21-1 record.

Wakefield, boasting one of the rangiest teams in Class D circles, has parlayed steady rebounding with a high powered offensive punch to remain in contention for U.P. honors.

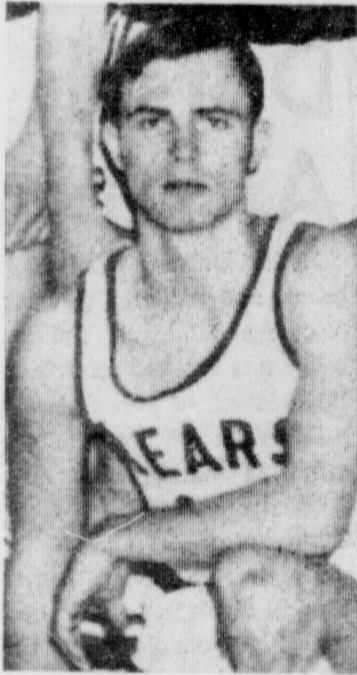

The Cardinals (19-3) were co-champions with Bessemer of the rugged Michigan-Wisconsin conference with identical 8-2 records.

Wakefield's talented Cardinals are composed of Mike Schweig, a 5-11 senior guard, who has been named to the Detroit Free Press all-state Class D first team; Kim Tomezyk, a 6-4 senior center; Russ Maki, a 6-1 junior forward; Dan Juntilla, a 5-8 senior guard and Ron Lake a 6-2 senior forward.

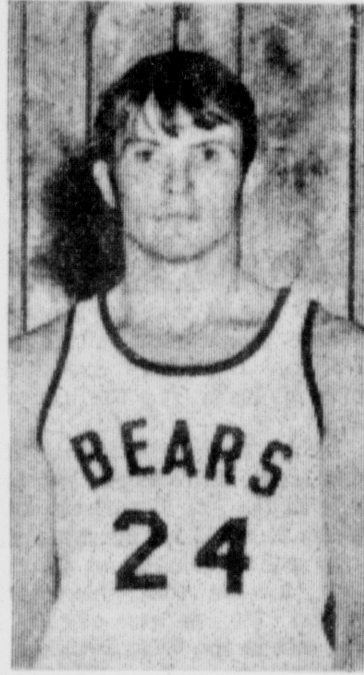

The Cardinals as a team averaged 76.6 points per game this season and held their opposition to 59.4 points per game.

Wakefield, because it has a tougher schedule against larger schools, has been picked as the favorite, but it has been proven time after time that teams have emerged as champions while playing throughout the season in their own class.

Dave Pelletier, Black Bear coach, said, "The Cardinals looked over-confident when they played Eben and although they are favored, we feel we have a team to change that role. Playing a team like Wakefield is a team we like to play, although we would have liked to see Eben, a team from our own conference, win the regionals." Pelletier also stated that Wakefield's height advantage might hurt his team in the game, but Big Bay can compensate that with their speed which will hurt just as much.

Bill Hartman

In trying to compare any team with the Cardinals, the Baraga Vikings lost their final game of the season 71-64 to Wakefield. Eben nipped Baraga 59-58 in Regional play and the Black Bears edged the Eagles 65-62 in overtime at Eben and 79-49 at home. Anyway you look at it, the clash is considered a toss up.

The Black Bears won 12 straight games before falling to Perkins by a 75-74 margin and since then have won nine straight and could equal their winning streak again by starting with Wakefield and then the trip to Lansing.

Big Bay, champion of the Central League, averaged 77.2 points per game and allowed its opponents 58.7 points per game. In comparison, the Black Bears hold the edge in statistics over the Cardinals.

Coach Pelletier's starting five all averaged over 10 points per game this year. Bill Hartman, one of the finer ball handlers in the state averaged 23.1 points per game and was named to the Detroit Free Press all state Class D sixth team. John Lewandowski averaged 17.0 points per game and leads the Black Bears in rebounds. Dave Hardwick (11.0), Kim Hartman (10.8) and Herb Pomeroy (10.3) round out the starting five.

From the standpoint of games won and lost, the season has been a truly successful one and can be even more glamorous with the U.P. Class D championship at Big Bay de Noc High School. For the followers of the Black Bears, the season has been quite satisfactory from their first victory of the season over Brimley, as well as impressive triumphs over Central League foes, to the Class D district crown and the regional title at Cheboygan last week.

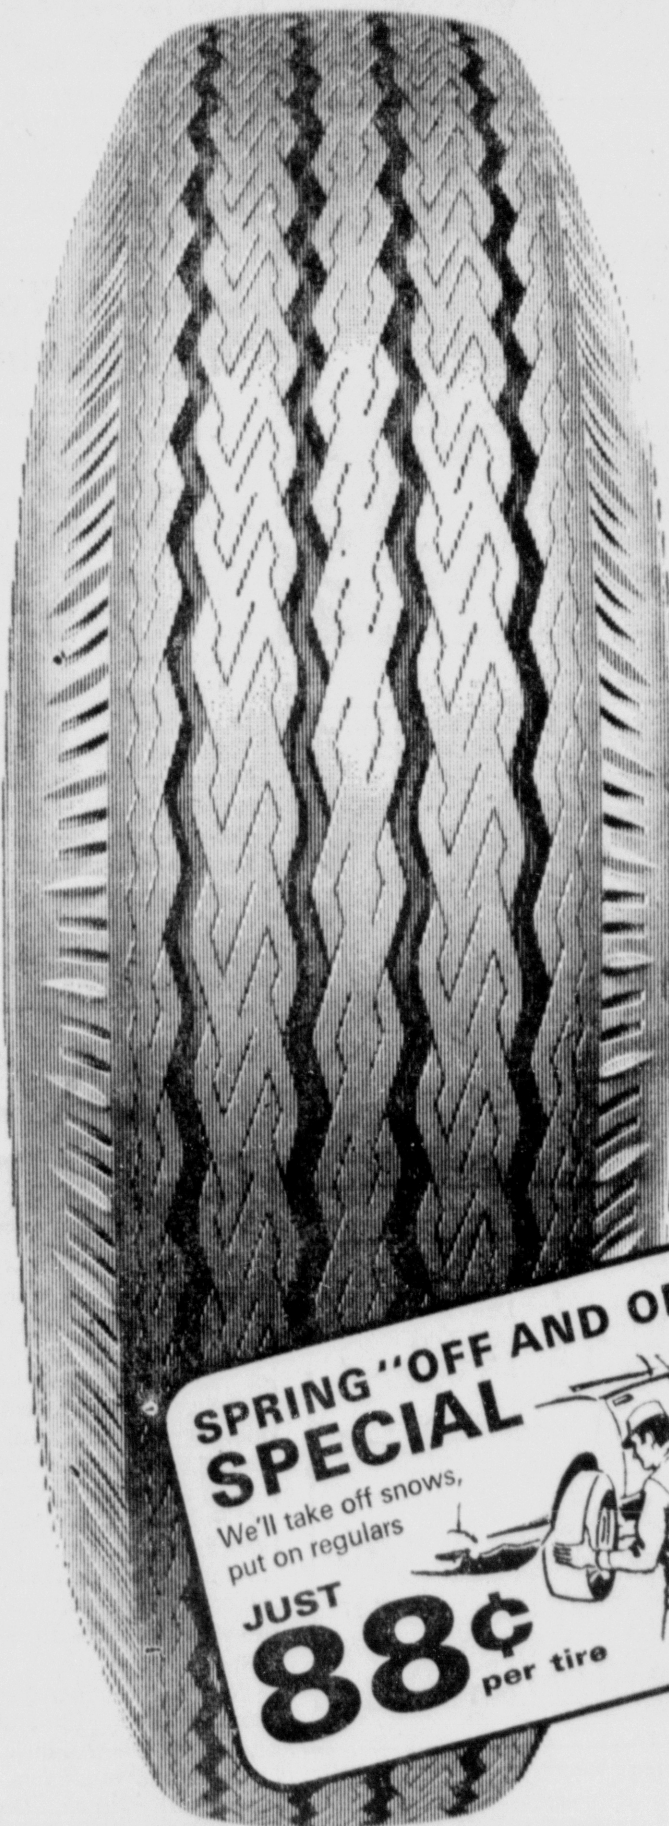

The Black Bears showing their intense desire to win can make basketball history at Big Bay a memorable event by proving that they have and are in that elite group of winners.

Ram Sets Record On Punt Returns

NEW YORK (AP) — Alvin Haymond of the Los Angeles Rams not only won the National Football League punt return crown for the 1969 season but gained more yards on returns by himself than any other entire team did.

Figures released Monday credited Haymond with 435 yards on 33 returns for a league-leading percentage of 13.2. Although Haymond also gained 150 yards or more than any team, he was 120 yards short of the NFL record set by Green Bay's Bill Grimes in 1950,

American League Ready To Shift Pilot Franchise

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The Seattle Pilots may become the Milwaukee Brewers before this day is over. The American League is just about ready to approve the transfer at a special meeting in the International Inn.

After weeks of indecision in which they tried to sell the club to Seattle interests, turned down a bid from a nonprofit group and then voted to back the original owners with a $650,000 loan, the American League is ready to make a move.

Nine of the 12 clubs must approve the transfer and the votes are understood to be in hand. The probability is that the one club within 90 miles which might have veto power on territorial rights, the Chicago White Sox, will go along.

A transfer is certain to generate new threats in Congress to baseball's immunity from antitrust laws. Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., has said he would urge Congress to revoke the game's immunity from the trust laws because "when you move these franchises around like pawns just because you think you'll do better in some other town, then you're in business."

In King County, Wash., Superior Court, two restraining orders have been granted against the move. The American League and the Pilots have been ordered to show cause later this week why a temporary injunction should not replace the restraining orders.

In Milwaukee, the American League will have a 45,000-seat stadium ready for an April 7 opening game with the California Angels. The Seattle park seated only 28,000 and attendance was only 677,944 in the city's first year of major league ball with a last-place team. Plans have been made and a bond issue approved to build a domed stadium that would be completed in 1973.

By a strange twist of fate, Milwaukee will be gaining a club in the face of legal action, similar to the action Milwaukee itself took when the Braves moved on to Atlanta after the 1965 season. Milwaukee was the first site of a big league franchise move in recent years when the Boston Braves moved west in 1953. The date was March 18 and the switch was accomplished without difficulty while the club was playing an exhibition game in St. Petersburg.

ALWAYS A BRIDESMAID — Milwaukee County Stadium has been wooing baseball franchises since 1965, when the Braves moved to Atlanta. At last, the Major League seems ready to return a home team to the little used, 44,613-seat facility. NFL markings on the baseball diamond, left over from a Green Bay Packer game, represent one of the stadium's few uses in recent years. (AP Wirephoto)

The Pilots, of course, already are playing exhibitions. Ticket sales have lagged in the light of the uncertainty over the club's future and a radio contract has been renegotiated with considerable loss of revenue.

The Milwaukee Brewers Inc., headed by Bud Selig and Judge Robert Cennon, former counsel for the major league baseball players are expected to pay $9.5 million, with another $1.5 million in reserve as operating capital.

A meeting scheduled for last Tuesday was called off at the last minute. It was announced that Bill Daley, owner of 60 per cent of the Seattle club's stock, was unable to attend because of illness. Daley later said his condition had been given as an excuse. However, he was not expected to attend.

Bulls Clinch Playoff Berth

By The Associated Press
Chet Walker dropped in 44 points but it was the four Bob Weiss scored that clinched a National Basketball Association playoff berth for the Chicago Bulls.

In the only NBA game Monday night, Chicago got two baskets in the last 85 seconds from Weiss in a 142-140 overtime victory over Cincinnati at Omaha, Neb. as the third-place Bulls moved 2½ games ahead of Phoenix in the West Division.

Weiss snapped a 138-138 tie with 1:25 left and hit again 20 seconds later to cement the triumph. Tom Boerwinkle's two-pointer with 29 seconds left in regulation time had tied it for the Bulls. Tom Van Arsdale had 42 points for Cincinnati.

In the only American Basketball Association contest, New Orleans swept past Dallas 111-95.

The loss dropped third-place Dallas 3½ games behind Western Division leader Denver while the Bucs got to within one-half game of Dallas in a bid for a playoff berth.

Dotsch To Speak At Annual Clinic

Rollie Dotsch, head football coach and athletic director at Northern Michigan University, will share top billing with Zeke Bratkowski of the Green Bay Packers on Friday night's program at the Seventh Annual Escanaba Football Coaches Clinic.

The two day event, April 10-11, will attract over 125 coaches from high schools in the Upper Peninsula and Northeastern Wisconsin.

Dotsch is a graduate of Michigan State University, where he was a football letterman as an interior lineman from 1952 to 1954, playing on the Spartan team that went to the Rose Bowl in 1953 after winning the Big Ten championship. He also played in the 1954 Blue-Gray contest.

Dotsch served as an assistant freshman coach at Michigan State and held high school coaching positions at Boyne City and Escanaba. He made his first stop at Northern Michigan University in 1958, serving as a line coach for three seasons. He left NMU in 1961 to accept a post as defensive backfield coach at the University of Colorado and the following year he joined the staff of Dan Devine at the University of Missouri.

Dotsch returned to Northern in 1966 and his 1967 team became the first Wildcat team in history to go through a season unbeaten and untied, finishing with a 9-0 record.

He was honored by the American Football Coaches Association when he was selected as one of the eight finalists for the national small college coach of the year award following the 1967 season.

The popular spring clinic will also feature a Saturday buffet and the usual array of door prizes. All sessions will again be held at the Terrace Supper Club and Motel. Fans wishing to attend any of the sessions may pay their registration fee at the door.

Further information may be obtained by writing the clinic directors, Jerry Cvengros of Escanaba High School and Bob Dufour of Holy Name High School.

Lou Brock of the St. Louis Cardinals has led the National League in stolen bases four straight years. Last year he led with 53.

Tigers Shine, But Mets Win

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Having lost six of their last seven exhibition games, the Detroit Tigers today face Kansas City's 3-5 record.

The Tigers were pretty proud of themselves Monday when they were two runs ahead of the New York Mets at the end of the eighth inning.

Detroit had scored in the fourth when Willie Horton homered off Tom Seaver, and in the ninth when Dick McAuliffe tripled and came in on Al Kaline's sacrifice fly.

But the Mets' Dave Marshall took care of the Detroit lead when he swatted a three-run homer with two outs in the ninth, and claimed a 3-2 victory.

Detroit's tall Tom Timmerman walked Wayne Garrett and Rod Gasper in the bottom of the ninth before he served the 320-foot homerun to pinch-hitter Marshall.

Earl Wilson had allowed the world champs only two hits during five scoreless innings.

Wilson's performance Monday makes him a probable successor to the much-missed Denny McLain as the Tigers' No. 1 right-hander.

Wilson has now worked 11 innings this spring, and his earned run average is only 0.38 compared to Mickey Lolich's 4.09, allowed during the same number of innings.

Largest State Cities Show Crime Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan's eight largest cities reported increases in virtually every category of serious crimes last year, according to the FBI's Uniform Crime Reports.

Detroit reported higher figures in 1969 than 1968 for each of seven categories except forcible rape. The state's largest city had 439 murders or nonnegligent manslaughter cases, compared with 13,774, and aggravated assaults climbed from 4,578 to 4,934.

Burglaries in Detroit increased from 37,932 to 41,264, larcenies from 17,660 to 22,236, and auto thefts from 19,303 to 22,438. Rapes were down from 954 to 913.

The FBI said the following crimes of violence were reported by the seven other Michigan cities over 100,000 in population.

Graceful Swans Ending 'Boycott'

TRAVERSE CITY (AP) — Three hundred graceful swans are back in Traverse City after an apparent boycott of salt-filled water last year.

The swans decorate the city's waterfront along the Boardman River which empties into Grand Traverse Bay, of Lake Michigan.

Last year the city dumped its salt-laden snow from its streets into the river and only a handful of swans stayed around. Officials theorize that the salt was an irritant to the majestic birds.

This year, Traverse City dumped its snow elsewhere and the swans returned to paddle around, peacefully salt-free.

Indians 'Do Their Thing' Inside U.S. Army Fort

SEATTLE (AP) — In the darkness before dawn the little band of Indians crept along the edge of Puget Sound and scaled the 70-foot cliff to the edge of the U.S. Army's Ft. Lawton.

They lay in the brush until, at first light, they saw the sentry pass on his hourly round Monday.

Then did they attack?

Nope. They hurried onto the fort grounds in a misty rain Sunday, set up a teepee, started a fire and began doing war dances.

A hundred years ago that would have been a silly way to run an Indian attack. In 1970, as Boeing 747 superjets flew overhead in their test pattern, the Indians felt it was the best way to express their demands for their rights.

"It was just like in the old days," said Grace Thorpe, daughter of famed Indian athlete Jim Thorpe. "You sneak up on the Army, you take 'em by surprise, then you start hollering and whooping." The Army didn't think it was funny. Soldiers arrested 78 Indians and put them in the stockade, fed them noodle soup and bologna sandwiches for lunch, then released them.

Seventeen were instructed to go before a U.S. commissioner today on a charge of violating a warning against entering a military installation illegally.

But the Indians, representing more than 30 tribes, had just begun to fight. They beefed up their sentry force at the main gate of the fort, which has been closed to the public since the Indians first invaded it a week ago. They organized office space and picket schedules and vowed to demonstrate peacefully ly until President Nixon meets their demands.

The United Indians of All Tribes, as the group calls itself, wants Ft. Lawton for an Indian university and culture center. They claim title to the land under the 1865 Treaty of Point Elliott. The Defense Department has announced that the post, now used for reserve training, will be deactivated this summer, and Seattle wants it for a park.

Abortion Laws Repeal Sought By State Group

LANSING (AP) — More than 50 women representing "liberation organizations" throughout the state visited the Legislature Monday night to express their hopes that pending abortion reform bills will be passed.

Carrying and wearing signs that said "repeal abortion laws" and "a child has the right to be wanted," the women filed slowly into the Senate gallery as the 8 p.m. session began.

Sen. N. Lorraine Beebe, R-Deerborn, chairman of the Senate committee which currently is studying the reform measures, introduced the women, saying they were "deeply concerned" over passage of the legislation.

The women — from Lansing, East Lansing, Haslett, Okemos, Holt, Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids, Mason and Grand Ledge — also were introduced in the House chamber.

More than 200 women from 15 Michigan cities are slated to demonstrate their endorsement of abortion law reform at the Capitol Wednesday.

Milliken's Support Of Tax Hike Sought

LANSING (AP) — Rep. George Montgomery, D-Detroit, majority floor leader of the Michigan House, revealed he hopes Gov. William Milliken will support an increase in the state personal income tax.

"I'm hopeful the governor will use his leadership to help us pass the revenue measure proposed in the House," Montgomery said at a news conference.

The House bill calls for an increase in the state personal income tax from 3.5 per cent. It's now 2.6 per cent.

The proposed increase, if approved by the Legislature and signed by the governor in time, could become effective July 1, the same date on which the five per cent federal surtax is to be eliminated, he said.

Montgomery said bipartisan support is needed for the proposal in the House to help assure its passage in the Senate, where Republicans have control.

The income tax increase, he said, is needed to finance the proposed school aid package.

"I hope we can accomplish this (passage of the tax) before 'Easter,'" Montgomery said. "Until we pass or give up on the income tax we won't know where we're going."

Milliken has proposed alternate taxes rather than the income tax increase.

Montgomery was asked if using the income tax routine to support the schools would mean that the tax might go up each year with increasing school costs.

"It will depend a lot on the national economy," he said. "If there are more people employed, making more money and paying more taxes."

Montgomery was sitting in for Rep. William Ryan, D-Detroit, the house speaker who generally conducts the briefing on goals of House Democrats.

Ryan said he had to keep a longstanding appointment in Detroit.

Montgomery ducked the question of whether he has decided to seek the Democratic nomination for governor. He has been dropping broad hints he might make the run.

"It's still possible," he said, but ventured no answer when asked if his candidacy was "probable."

Griffin Sees Judge Carswell Being Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, assistant Republican leader in the Senate, has predicted Senate confirmation of Judge G. Harrold Carswell to the Supreme Court despite opposition turning up pressure on the legislators.

"I would predict that although the debate may go on for a week or so, that he will be confirmed," Griffin said.

Contrary to the opposition that knocked Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. out of the nomination, Griffin said, "there has been no substantial question of ethics raised about Judge Carswell. The principal argument deals with his philosophy, and whether or not you agree with his decisions."

Challenge

LIVONIA (AP) — Carl D. Purcell announced Monday that he will again challenge Sen. George Kuhn for the Republican nomination on the 14th District state Senate ballot. Purcell, a member of the Wayne County Board of Supervisors, lost the 1966 primary to Kuhn, who has not yet announced his candidacy.
